GIS Resources at MSU

Cynthia Ghering, IT Services & University Archives
Chris Perry, Infrastructure Planning & Facilities
Jade Freedman, Infrastructure Planning & Facilities
Justin Booth, RS&GIS, Department of Geography
Joel Lenz, RS&GIS, Department of Geography

IT Conference 2014
GIS

A geographic information system (GIS) is a computer system designed to capture, store, manipulate, analyze, manage, and present all types of geographical data.

Geographic Information Systems (GIS) - Wikipedia
en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Geographic_information_system  Wikipedia
Welcome

On the Banks of the Red Cedar provides online access to documents, images, film, and audio materials related to the history of Michigan State University. This site is open for use by MSU faculty, staff, students, alumni, and the public. Combining collections from the MSU Archives & Historical Collections, the MSU Libraries, the MSU Museum and other departments around campus, On the Banks provides a unified site where anyone can go to search for information about MSU’s history.

Located on the Red Cedar River in East Lansing, Michigan, Michigan State University was founded in 1855 by an action of the State Legislature. The former Michigan Agricultural College became a University in 1955 and currently hosts over 46,000 students.
Welcome to the Civil War Collections web site created by University Archives & Historical Collections at Michigan State University. We have been featured on ABC TV and Michigan Radio. The Military Online Colleges website has recently (June 2014) added our site as one of the 100 Civil War History Sites that military personnel should bookmark.

In 2011, the nation began commemorating the 150th anniversary of the Civil War. Although no actual battles were fought in Michigan, men—and women—from the state served throughout the war in more than 50 Michigan regiments of infantry, cavalry, artillery, and engineers, as well as in regiments of other states. These Michigan citizens were vital to the Union cause, and President Abraham Lincoln is quoted as exclaiming, ”Thank God for Michigan!” when the state’s first troops arrived to serve. During the sesquicentennial of the Civil War, MSU has brought together many of its valuable resources and made them easily available for research and teaching about the Civil War. These can be found at the Civil War sesquicentennial: MSU resources web site.

As part of this sesquicentennial commemoration, University Archives & Historical Collections staff are transcribing and digitizing its collections relating to the Civil War. These materials—including hundreds of pages of correspondence, diaries, musters, reminiscences, and
MSU Vietnam Group Archive

MSU Vietnam Group Archive includes upwards of 100,000 pages of digitized documents, maps, and photographs from 1955-1962, when MSU worked with the American government in South Vietnam for the purpose of producing a stable, non-Communist country in the Cold War era. Although their efforts eventually failed, the MSU Vietnam Group Archive contains rare and valuable data about life in South Vietnam immediately prior to the Vietnam War. Materials in this archive allow students and scholars to get an insider's view of America's university-assisted nation-building practices.
Welcome to the Vietnam Archive.

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, nam saperet vocibus adolescentis cu, ex eos aeque bonorum. An menandri principes signiferumque est. An stet ancillae assueverit vis, his an oratio voluptatum, semper mentitum mediocrem ut eum. Integre civibus definiebas mea no, eam harum evertitur abhorreant at. Solet vivendo mel te.
NORTH VIETNAM
Map of Vietnamese Tribes, Undated

This colored map indicates the various regions that different tribes reside in Vietnam.

MSU Archives Historical Collections
Original Format: Map

Educational use only, no other permissions given. Copyright to this resource is held by Michigan State University and is provided here for educational purposes only. It may not be reproduced or distributed in any format without written permission of the MSU Archives Historical Collections.
historypin

A global community collaborating around history
Now for the real GIS experts!...